

New Mexico Developers of Brain Injury Recovery Kit Train BIS Staff and Community Members

Two trainers who developed a new tool for survivors of brain injury provided training on the Brain Injury Recovery Kit at the BIS headquarters in Springfield on November 9, 2006. This tool is the result of collaboration between Lisa Keller, survivor of a 1993 brain injury, and Sandra J. Knutson, Lisa's Case Manager in Santa Fe, New Mexico and Day-Timers, Inc. Lisa has dedicated the last ten years to creating an innovative system that can help guide people through the unique and complex process of recovery after brain injury.

BIS received a grant through the Rehabilitative Services Incentive Fund to purchase over 30 day timer kits created by Lisa and her colleagues. BIS staff is very anxious to evaluate how these kits will help improve the lives of survivors along with the case management services they provide.